TWO FARES SECURED TEN MILES SOUTH of BRENTON'S REEF YESTERDAY.

FISH ARE REPORTED SCHOOLING FROM SHINNECOCK to BLOCK ISLAND.

There is no material change to note in the mackerel situation. The catch to date is about the smallest on record. The entire seining fleet are now at Cape Shore and the bad weather the past week has retarded progress of the netters which are in the vicinity of Block Island, while dense fog and strong winds have prevented the seiners on the Cape Shore from taking any fish, although mackerel in small quantities from Yarmouth to Louisburg are reported being taken.

The spring mackerel fishing season is fast drawing to a close and one more week will give a good idea what the result will be.

The fares of the porgle steamers
George Hudson and Annie Wilcox, which arrived at Newport today were taken 10 miles south from Brenton's Reef. Both captains report many schools from Shinecock to Block Island and that the prospects are good

This news is as was expected, for a good school of fish may be expected during the month of June in that section which will extend to the South Channel. It was hoped and expected that the vessels at Cape Shore would ere this, secure fares down there, in order that they would be home in time for the spurt off Block Island and No

Man's Land.
The fleet has landed 2469 barrels mackerel during the week and 90 bar-rels have come to hand from Nova Sco-The total fresh mackerel landed by the fleet to date have been 10,532 barrels, against 14,489 barrels last year, 7469 barrels in 1908, 19,989 barrels in 1907, 15,289 barrels in 1906 and 20,098 barrels in 1905.

The imports of salt mackerel for the week have been 200 barrels, all from Ireland. For the season to date the total importations of salt mackerel have been 33,351 barrels, against 43,887 barrels last year.

Late reports from Ireland indicate a good catch, the fish running about 350 to the barrel. The total shipments of Irish salt mackerel from Liverpool for the season to date have been 36,125 barrels autumn caught and 243 barrels new spring. The jobbing trade is still quiet, though the new spring Irish mackerel are attracting some attention and are being offered by the jobbers at $15@$15.50 barrel.

Seiners Now at Prospect, N. S.

A Prospect, N. S., despatch to the Hallfax Chronicle says that bad weather for the past few days is responsible for the small catches of all kinds of fish made in that vicinity of late. The mackerel catch has so far this season proved a failure. The largest catches were between 200 and 300, and the fish were all large.

Several Boston and Gloucester seinanchored there last Tuesday for shelter. They report taking 40 bar-rels. Capt. Hall is said to be the lucky man to get them. In all, five vessels got some. The Monica K. Thomas of Herring Cove is said to have got 60 barrels. The vessels in were: Constitution, Dauntless, Electric Flash, Effie M. Prior, Lena Maud, Victor, Shenandoah, Saladin, Oriole, Rex. ## SCH. ONATO HAS 220,000 LBS. FARE

First of Shacking Fleet to Arrive From St. Peter's Bank.

Reports Trawlers Doing Well But Handliners Poorly on Quero.

Onato, Capt. Henry Larkin, another of the eastern shacking fleet, arived today with a large fare of fresh and salt cod fish, consisting of 75,000 pounds of salt cod and 145,000 pounds of fresh cod. The schooner is from St. Peter's Bank, and is the first arrival of the cod and shack fishermen to come from that locality this spring.

Capt. Larkin said nothing of special interest had occurred since leaving home five weeks ago. "We waited," he said, "at the Magdalenes, where herring were plentiful and cheap. Our first baiting we used on Quero Bank, where we secured 75,000 pounds of salt fish. On the second Laiting we changed the ground and went to St. Peter's Bank, and there found fish plentiful and secured the balance of our trip, 145,000 pounds of large, fresh cod. We found better large, fresh cod. We found better and larger fish on St. Peter's than we did on Quero. Then there were no vessels at St. Peter's, while Quero Bank wes covered with all kinds of craft, from one end to the other."

"Since leaving the gulf, the weather has been bad, but up Cabot strait it was fine and warm. On St. Peter's bank, it was extremely foggy and a strong breeze all the time, making it pretty hard fishing, and dory hand-line fishermen with only one man in a boat would not have been able to fish for the last 10 days."

Capt. Larkin said he saw no vessels on St. Peter's Bank, except one French steam beam trawler, which reported taking 2000 quintals of fish m 10 days. A week ago he saw sch. Completed. William E. Morrissey, which had just come on St. Peter's Bank from Quero, and Capt. Forbes reported having taken only 60 tubs of fish, and the dory handliners had done pothing.

There are only four French beam trawlers on the bank yet, but Capt. Larkin understood from them that 20 sail more would soon be out.

Trawlers Doing Better Than Dory Handliners.

When asked the prospect for the dory handliners to secure trips and get home early, he said that the dory handliners are fishing with salt clam bait, which was useless when a fleet of trawlers are around with fresh herring, as the American and Nova Scotia vessels were, and while the

But Large Number of Vessels Expected For Monday.

As predicted, there is but one arrival at Boston today, so receipts are but a few thousand pounds of mixed fish. This, however, was expected, as the shore fleet have had no weather to fish, and those operating on the more distant grounds would not come in the last of the week, which is always a dull market day.

Monday doubtless will see a change for the better, as a large number of vessels will arrive in the meantime.

Prices today are firm, as they have been all the week. With a clean market on Monday, firm prices will doubtless prevail for some time to come. Indeed the number of vessels tending the market is not large, so that no trawlers were getting good fishing, with new fresh herring, the handlin-ers could not get a fish. He had tak-en 40 tubs at one set of the trawls, while a handliner but a short distance away did not get one tub for 18 dor-

The conditions will change when the squid comes on the bank, and they will have an equal chance, but this is a matter of conjecture, for squid are not a permanent fixture, as the cap-tain had been on all the banks several seasons, and never saw a squid, but it is hoped this will not be the ease this year.

Weather Foggy and Blowy on Homeward Trip.

Capt. Larkin said he left St. Peter's Bank last Monday and it was blowing a strong breeze from south-east, so heavy that all the sail he could carry was foresail, jib and topsail, until off Halifax, when a reefed mainsail was set. A dense fog pre-vailed all the time, making it impossible for the seiners on the Nova Scotia coast to do anything. During the passage he never saw any sign of mackerel coming up the Cape Shore, but it was thick all the time, and yesterday was the only fine day he had seen in two weeks. It seemed to him that mackerel seiners on the Cape Shore must have a pretty hard time and in fact it was impossible for them to do anything.

Capt. Larkin had the honor of bringing in the largest fare of shack fish at this port last year until Capt. Thomas of sch. Thomas L. Gorton has just taken it away in the trip just

NEWS FROM THE BANKERS.

Reports of Poor Fishing by Handliners Confirmed.

Capt. Malone of sch. Lillian, which arrived this morning from a shack-ing trip, brings the same story from the dory handline fleet as those who preceded him. The weather he says was very bad, all the time they were on Bank Quero. He saw a large number of the handliners and sch. John J. Flaherty was the only one he reports with any fish and she had taken 100,000 pounds. Sch. Tattler when he last saw her had but 30 tubs.

He left the bank Wednesday and spoke sch. Helen G. Wells on Middle ground but she had done noth-

SEVEN VESSELS ARRIVE WITH FISH

All Have Fair-sized Trips for the Season.

Receipts of fish at this port today are only of moderate dimensions and confined to one arrival from Quero Bank with 135,000 pounds of salt cod, two from drift fishing with 45,000 pounds each of salt cod, three from pollocking with an aggregate catch of 235,000 pounds, two from halibuting with 26,000 pounds and 45,000 pounds of mixed fresh and salt fish, and one halibuter from Anticosti with 8000 pounds of salt cod and 32,000 pounds of halibut.

This is not a very brilliant commencement for the second week of June, but as the wind is favorable for vessels to make port some of the east-ern shack fleet may put in an ap-pearance before the day closes.

The shore boats and pollock seiners operating off here did not secure any fish yesterday, owing to undesirable weather that prevented fishing.

The two arrivals from the Rips have good trips and somewhat help out the situation.

PRICES HIGH.

Receipts at Boston Insufficient to Supply the Trade.

Receipts of fish at Boston today, while making a little better showing than at the last of the week, is not up to expectations, as the arrivals are only about a dozen sail, most of whom have but small fares.

The steam trawler Spray seems to be cutting a rapid pace, and is in again today with 57,000 haddock which is more of this particular commodity than all the rest combined

The market is exceedingly firm haddock being quoted from $3.50 to $6 per cwt, and other ground fish are accordingly. Indeed receipts are not sufficient. sufficient up there today to supply the pedlers' trade, and unless relief comes by tomorrow prices will be higher.

SCH. POLLY AT BOSTON.

Sailed Successfully Through Heavy Gale of Saturday.

The famous two-masted schooner Polly, 105 years old, the oldest craft in commission in this country and one of the oldest in the world, arrived at Boston yesterday.

The old hooker has just had her sea-going qualities put to the test, for she ran through a furious northeasterly gale Saturday and was rocked by tremendous seas for several hours.

All Saturday night Capt. J. H. Weldon and Mate John Steenkamp never sleet a wink. The true season as wink.

slept a wink. The two men compose the entire ship's company, and they act as officers and crew.

When the Polly was lurching into the great seas it became necessary to shorten sail, as she was dipping water over her bows and was straining considerably. The pump had to be worked at intervals to keep her free, but altogether she behaved admirably.

The Polly had been laid up at Rock-land all winter. Early in May she went to Bangor and loaded 48,890 feet of lumber for Boston. She left Bangor two weeks ago, towed down the Penobscot river as far as Fort Point and then set sail.

CAPT. CAMERON OVERBOARD.

Thrown Into Water From Seineboat By Breaking of Oar

Capt. Reuben Cameron of sch. Mary Harty, met with what came near being a serious accident recently The vessel was on the fishing ground and it was blowing a strong breeze, and quite rough. The lookout saw a school of mackerel, and all the crew being eager to capture it, the seine was put on the boat and a start was made to set around it. Capt. Cameron who was steering the boat, accidentally brokke the oar and was thrown overboard. The boat was immediately turned around and with their might the crew pulled for their skipper, who was struggling in the water, they succeeded in grasping him just as he was about to sink and pulled him into the boat and rowed him to the vessel, where he was taken on board and soon recovered from his involuntary bath.

Capt. Cameron is one of the leading skippers from this port and his many friends will rejoice to learn of his escape from such an accident.

The British sch, Clintonia, Capt. E. C. Mack, which arrived here last week, weighed off 200,000 pounds of salt cod, and will fit out at this port for a return trip, Capt. Mack said he would take from here 250 horshands of salt turn trip. Capt. Mack said he would take from here 250 hogsheads of salt and with 125 which he had on board he was in hopes of using it, which would salt 430,000 pounds of fish, which his vessel would carry. He will also take on board other stores for the voyage. It is his intention to come here with his next trip and he would try and fill his vessel before returning.

NO NEWS FROM THE SEINERS.

Metters Off Newport Sustained Damage From Storm.

There is no change to note in the mackerel situation, for no direct news has been received from the Cape Shore fleet, and reports from incoming vessels are to the effect that bad weather prevails, making it impossible for the seiners to do anything. Meanwhile the elusive fish will continue on their migratory course, as can be noted by mackerel being taken at Alberton, P. E. I., which is well up the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and 300 miles from where the vessels are now on the south side of Nova Scotia.

This in itself shows conclusively that the mackerel have already covered a wide range of territory and are at a point where they are not usually taken before the middle of Luly This was before the middle of July. This was the case when hook and line fishing was in range, and it is reasonable to assume that the habits of the mackerel have not changed, while the inventive genius of man and the method of catching them have. But it may be, should good weather come during the week, the seiners may make some good hauls and secure trips off the southern shore of Nova Scotia and Cape Breton.

The Canadian Fish Thursday last reported a few mackerel being taken at Liverpool, Salmon River, Isaac Harbor and St. Peters. Fair catches by net fishermen at Main-a-dieu and Alberton, P. E. I. Mackerel have also struck in at Pleasant Bay, N. S.

This is the first time mackerel have been reported this season at Prince Edward Island and Magdalenes.

The Canadian Fish Bureau of Friday last, reports no mackerel at Yarmouth or immediate vicinity, but 10 barrels were taken at Isaac Harbor, and at White Head the drailers took from 200 to 500 per boat, but very few in moored nets. At Alberton, P. E. I., fair fishing is reported but none anywhere else.

Newport Netting Fleet Suffered From Gale.

At Newport it has been blowing heavy from the eastward the last three days and some of the netters have met with serious mishap in way of net with serious misnap in way of loss of nets and other minor accidents. Sch. Thistie of Salem lost 30 nets, and sch. J. W. Hamilton of Boston lost mainboom and mainsail. There were other net losses and narrow escapes of crews. According to report, some of the other vessels which went into New Bedford were to have scarted out to-

Bedford were to have started out to-day to look for their lost nets, Sch. Blanche Irving of this port came in, with a dory picked up off No Mans Land, Saturday morning, which may mean something serious. The dory was not marked for ownership.

The opinion was expressed that when the fleet returns there may be some startling news of thrilling experiences the fleet underwent Friday and Saturday during the storm.

Sch. W. H. Reed of New York was high boat with 1300 mackerel; the schooner Bernie and Bessie of Port-land had 1200 and the sch. Blanche Irving of Gloucester 1000 mackerel, which brought 25 cents apiece.

Capt. Malone of sch. About six miles off Lockeport, early in the morning he saw several schools which showed well, but there were no seiners in sight. It was rough and blowing a strong breeze, so that seiners would have been unable to fish. able to fish.

June 7. FISH RECEIPTS NOT PLENTIFUL.

Only One Shacker and One Halibuter at this Port.

Receipts of fish at this port today are of a meagre character and confined to two trips, one from Quero with 90,000 pounds of fresh cod and 25,000 pounds of salt cod, and one halibut catcher with 20,000 pounds of halibut and 9000 pounds of cod.

The non-arrival of more of the The non-arrival of more of eastern shack fleet is evidence, as previously reported, that they are finding slack fishing on Quero and the county in that section. Five other grounds in that section. vessels of the shack fleet have al-ready arrived and all tell of the scarcity of fish on the Banks, although two of them secured good trips. But the big fares of last three or four years, when every vessel arrived filled to the hatches is not in evidence as yet, and reports already made seem to bear out the fact that this fishery will not be as successful as regards big fares as was anticipated some time

In view of the present outlook it must seem that receipts of fish the next month or so, will not equal that of one year ago.
